

Track Your Exercise for a Lifetime of Health

Whatever physical activity you enjoy, 30 minutes a day most days of the week will have positive, lasting benefits on your overall health. For example, if you begin a walking program you may find that you lose a little weight and increase your endurance. Invite a group of friends, buy a pedometer and enjoy the outdoors!

Visit <http://win.niddk.nih.gov/publications/walking.htm#howstart> to learn more about starting a walking program. The web site spiritofwomen.com/walkwithspirit also has online tools like a step tracker to keep you motivated. Use the grid below to start tracking your progress and note other health differences you experience.
